William Henry Hill b1867 – d1941) Architect

Biographical / Administrative History

Architect and engineer, born Cork 24 June 1867. Studied engineering at Queen's College, Cork, and then served with his fathers firm W.H. Hill & Son. After his father's death in 1911, he carried on the business under the same name. In 1919 Henry William Flanagin came into the partnership, practising as Hill Son & Flanagin up to c.1924. In 1907, appointed diocesan architect for the Province of Munster, a position which he held for over thirty years. Also architect to the Cork Lunatic Asylum, engineer to the Cork & Muskerry Light Railway (1902), consulting engineer to Cork Rural District Council (c.1905) and to Youghal Urban District Council (c.1910). Active member of the Cork Archaeological and Historial Society. Died 31 October 1941. Business was carried on by his partner John Wilkinson. Hill's pupils and assistants included Robert Boyle Chillingworth. Office at 28 South Mall, Cork. (Ref. www.dia.ie)
